

Company Wants Court To Drop Previous Order

Coshocton Gas Co. Files Motion To Dissolve Injunction Restraining Collection of Increased Rate — Would Compel City To Furnish Additional Security.

The Coshocton Gas Co. thru its attorney F. E. Pomeroy, filed a motion in the court of appeals Monday asking the court to vacate its judgment and order made January 6, 1916 wherein the court ordered the dissolution of an order of common pleas court and prevented the gas company from charging an increased rate for gas in Coshocton.

The motion is made on the grounds that the State Public Utilities Commission has assumed full jurisdiction in the case, which was brought by the city of Coshocton.

Want More Bond.

An alternative motion was also filed which asks that in case the first motion is overruled that the city be required to give additional adequate security. It is alleged that the bond which has been furnished by the city is entirely insufficient to cover the loss which may be sustained by the company during the pendency of the suit.

City Objects.

City Solicitor M. C. Ely and Attorney W. S. Merrell, representing the city, filed a motion objecting to the hearing of the motion and alternative motion of the gas company on the grounds that the court has no jurisdiction and because the plaintiffs object to the hearing of the motion at any place except Coshocton.

Revelis Brothers Are Sued

Suit for $369.00 alleged to be the balance due on account, was filed in common pleas court Monday against George and Pete Revelis, proprietors of the Cinderella motion picture theatre, by George Brown and Thomas Coines.

The plaintiffs allege that on January 9, 1915, they sold and delivered to the defendants their one-half interest in the Cinderella theatre and in an organ located in Cambridge, for the gross sum of $1,001.00. They allege that the Revelis brothers have failed to make payments upon the account as they had agreed to do and that there is now due $369.00.

Attorney J. L. McDowell represents the plaintiffs.

Octogenarian Dies at Her Home Near Fresno

Mrs. Katherine Norris, wife of Marquis Norris, died Monday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Chris Wolfe, near Fresno. Death resulted from kidney trouble.

Mrs. Norris was Mrs. Katherine McKivick and was born near Osgo, November 2, 1833. She was married to Marquis Norris, July 12, 1868 and to the union were born three children, all of whom survive. They are: Mrs. Chris Wolfe, of Fresno; James Norris, of Indianapolis; and David Norris, of Coshocton. Mrs. Charles Gau-

Claim City Should Pay Street Bill

The county commissioners Monday discussed the advisability of discontinuing at least a portion of the appropriation which is made each year for the purpose of keeping the streets clean around the court square. The county commissioners believe that it is up to the city to keep the city streets clean and do not believe that the county should be called upon to pay $192 each year for this purpose.

It was intimated that Superintendent Sam Ashman will be approached by the commissioners in regard to the matter within a short time.

Clarence Howe Critically Ill

Mrs. W. H. Robinson, of Chestnut street, was called to Wheeling, Monday by the critical condition of her son-in-law, Clarence Howe. Mr. Howe was stricken by pneumonia poisoning after eating oyster soup last Friday. He was taken to a hospital where an operation was resorted to in hopes of saving his life but this seems not to have had the desired effect as his condition Monday was still doubtful.

Mr. Howe's wife, (Blanche Robinson,) died from tuberculosis last May, while crossing the divide in Colorado, enroute home from New Mexico, where she had been spending the winter.

GOOD SKATING

About three hundred Sunday afternoon enjoyed the skating on the ice at the Red Sea and many were on the ice Monday. The snow Sunday evening however had spoiled the sport to some extent.

FOREIGN SPIES FOMENT STRIKE AT YOUNGSTOWN

Attorneys Conducting Probe Know In General Way Of Pressure Used

GRAND JURY IS INVESTIGATING

Expect Big Sensation Will Be Sprung When All Facts Are Learned

Columbus, Jan. 17.—Assistant Attorney General Henry S. Ballard and Prosecuting Attorney A. M. Henderson, who are directing the grand jury investigation, are of the opinion that the Youngstown riots, during which four persons were killed, 100 injured, property destroyed valued at nearly $1,000,000, were caused by foreign influences. What these influences were in a general way is known to the officials. It looks as if foreign nations which would be benefited by the crippling of American factories engaged in manufacturing war munitions, had a hand in what last appeared to be a disorganized riot, so it is asserted.

Only The Beginning.

WATER PIPES BURST

Damage roughly estimated at several hundred dollars, resulted from a burst water pipe at the R. M. Temple job printing establishment in the McDowell building on Hickory street Monday night and early Tuesday morning.

Three floors of the building were covered with water to a depth of two inches when the leak was discovered by Patrolman Charles Williams who called Mr. Temple over the telephone.

The condition of a car load of calendar paper just received, which had been stored in the basement of the building, could not be learned at an early hour this morning.

Young Woman's Death Brings Sorrow to Many

The funeral of Miss Bernice Keagy, aged 29, who died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keagy, at South Lawn avenue and Poplar street, Monday afternoon, will be held Thursday afternoon. The services will be conducted at the home by Rev. Dr. E. O. Buxton, pastor of Grace M. E. church. Interment will be made in South Lawn cemetery.

Miss Keagy's death was a great shock and brought the keenest sorrow to her countless friends, when the news came to them Monday morning. Altho she had been ill for a week, no that that her condition was critical had been entertained until a few hours before her death. She had been suffering since last Monday from what was believed to be grip but her condition was not serious enough to confine her to her bed all the time. Sunday morning, however, she suffered a relapse and continued to grow weaker so rapidly that her condition became very alarming and it was soon realized that the disease had affected the heart. She sank into unconsciousness during the morning and rallied from this state only at brief intervals until she passed away at 6 o'clock the following morning.

Bernice Keagy was born in Coshocton January 27, 1887, and spent her entire life here. She was educated in the Coshocton public schools, and after graduation she took up the work of keeping the books for the firm in which her father is the senior partner—Keagy & Lear. In this capacity she had served efficiently until her last illness. She made countless friends thru her pleasant lovable disposition and her church work, and altho of a quiet and reserved disposition she moved among almost all classes of people doing good wherever possible. Her Christian character at all times exerted an elevating influence upon the community, and it can truly be said her associates have been made better for her having lived among them.

She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church from childhood, uniting with this church when only ten years of age. At the time of her death she had charge of a primary class in the Sunday school at the Grace M. E. church, and was an active member of the Queen Esther Circle, an auxiliary organization of the church. She was also a member of the Rebecca lodge and took an active interest in the affairs of this social organization.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keagy, and one sister, Nora, aged eleven, survive.

HE'LL LEARN.

An eight year youngster, who carries papers on the streets of the city, appeared in the office of Judge Ashman with twenty pennies clutched tightly in his chubby fist. He handed them over to the judge with the explanation that they did not belong to him but had been given to him by another boy. The judge told him that if the owner could not be found, the pennies would be given back. "No, they ain't mine," refused the youngster as he shook his head and walked out.

Answers Charges Made By Inspector Green Who In- vestigated City Records

CITED CASE OF ANDREW FISHER

Alleges Inspector Was In- consistent In Making His Investigation

Alleging that his political affiliations and not his actions resulted in criticism of his methods being made by Inspector Green, whose report was recently received here, Elmer Smith, service director under the administration of L. N. Staats, gave his side of the story at the Uthana theatre just before Janet Korngold, well known Socialist lecturer, began to talk.

Smith briefly explained the situation pointing out the fact that Inspector Green's criticism of his administration of the office, was based upon objections to one person. (Continued on Page Two)

WOMAN IS STRICKEN

Premier Says That Peace Negotiations Will Be Started At Once

Berlin, Jan. 17.—The Overseas News Agency, which bears a semi-official relationship to the German foreign office, announced today that Count Tisza, the Hungarian premier, had announced in the Hungarian parliament that Montenegro had asked for separate peace.

An offer to unconditionally lay down her arms had been made to Austria and the offer had been accepted, the premier is reported to have stated. The news spread fast and Buda Pest immediately declared a holiday of rejoicing at the first defection of the entente allies.

Premier Tisza is quoted as couching his announcement in the following words: "Both King Nicholas and the Montenegro cabinet have asked for peace terms. Montenegro has agreed to lay (Continued on page 3)

Democrat Defeated

At two o'clock this morning the city council and the county board of elections completed a recount of the vote cast for councilmen-at-large the result being that Melvin McKinley, who filed the contest when he lost to J. E. Foster by one vote, was elected by a plurality of five votes. The total vote stood:

McKinley, 950
Foster, 945

The first count, which was contested by McKinley, stood:

McKinley, 913
Foster, 919

At the instigation of the Republican executive committee, McKinley, thru his attorney, W. S. Merrell, filed a petition for a recount of the ballots and contested the election of Foster.

Council's count resulted in McKinley receiving 32 more votes than he was given by the first count while Foster was given a total of 26 more than he had been given by the first count.

Foster said last night that he was satisfied with the result of the count made by council and it is understood that he contemplates no further action in the matter. However, Attorney R. B. McDermott, representing Foster, is said to have intimated that the election would be contested on account of the fact that officials in one of the precincts were not sworn.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Fairfield Paper company, operated at New Baltimore, O., which is owned and controlled by local capital, the following directors were re-elected for the ensuing year: L. P. Gallagher, M. D. Custer, L. C. McCurdy, L. D. Cohen and H. R. McCurdy.

The directors immediately organized by re-electing the following officers:

President, Dr. H. R. McCurdy.
Secretary and treasurer, M. D. Custer.

At this meeting which was held Monday morning in the offices of Dr. H. R. McCurdy, dividends were declared on both the common and preferred stock. The company has enjoyed a prosperous year according to the report of L. D. Griley, manager of the plant, who was present at the meeting.

Cold Wave Will Pass Tonight; Records Broken

Lowest Mark of Winter Monday Morning—Three Sections Report Ten Below—Four Below Is Official Mark Made Here—Equally Cold This Morning.

Sunday night was the coldest of the winter and indications at an early hour this morning are that the mercury will attain an equally low mark by day light. A blinding snow storm accompanied by a high wind brought the mercury down with surprising swiftness Sunday afternoon. Sunday night and all day Monday the entire county shivered and shook. On account of the biting wind, many were surprised that the mercury did not register lower.

Four Below.

At sun rise Monday morning, according to the official thermometer at the home of Tom Page, local weather prognosticator, four degrees below zero, the low mark of the winter was reached. "The mercury got no higher than eight degrees above zero all day," said Mr. Page to The Tribune at nine o'clock last night. "This is the coldest day of the winter by two degrees," continued the weather observer. "Two days during the month of December the maximum temperature registered was ten degrees above zero. The mercury will go as low tonight as it was Sunday night but Tuesday night will be somewhat warmer. January 20 and 21 will be still warmer."

er indications being that the minimum temperature here will be above freezing."

Low Marks.

It was reported that a thermometer on Cambridge street registered ten degrees below zero at an early hour Monday morning and at seven o'clock Monday morning the thermometer at the fire station registered five degrees below.

Reports last night from New Castle, Tiverton and West Lafayette were that the mercury dropped as low as ten degrees below zero Monday morning. Reports from other sections of the county are as follows:

Well Known Farmer Dies From Dropsy

The body of David Ridgway, who died of dropsy at the home of his son, C. C. Ridgway, in Cambridge, Sunday, will be brot to Coshocton this afternoon. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Grace M. E. church, with the pastor, Rev. E. O. Buxton in charge. The body will be placed in the vault at Oak Ridge cemetery and later will be laid to rest in the Fairview cemetery, at Adamsville.

Mr. Ridgway was a resident of Conesville and was one of the best known farmers in Coshocton county. He would have been 87 years old on the 12th of February. He was born in Muskingum county and for forty years has been a resident of Coshocton county. Two months ago he went to Ada where he had been living with his son. His wife died 24 years ago. Seven children survive. They are: William Ridgway and Mrs. Sophia Salrin, of Kent, O.; Mrs. Louise Cavanaugh, of Oklahoma; C. C. Ridgway and A. L. Ridgway of Ada, O.; Miss Altha Ridgway of Marysville, Cal. and Mrs. Harvey Lapp, of near Bellefontaine.

MEETINGS END.

In speaking of the revivalistic meetings at the M. P. church which closed Sunday night, Rev. A. B. Williams declared last night that the meetings had been attended with good success.

Funeral Of Mrs. Kobel Held Today

The funeral of Mrs. John Kobel, who died at her home in Fresno, Sunday morning at 6 o'clock, will be held today, with services at 1 o'clock at the home in charge of Rev. J. E. McCall, pastor of the Fresno M. E. church.

Mrs. Kobel's death followed an extended illness from dropsy. She was born in Tuscarawas county on December 12, 1848. She had lived in Fresno for the last thirty years. She was first married to Mr. Zipp, of Tuscarawas county, who died a few years after their marriage. On July 25, 1878 she was married to Mr. Kobel. They lived in Adams township until 1889 when they moved to a farm one mile west of Fresno where she had since resided. She leaves her husband and the following children: Miss Della Kobel, of the home; John and Charles, of Fresno; Mrs. Lydia Metloy, of New Philadelphia; Mrs. Anna Donnelly, of Warren, and the following stepchildren: Mrs. Maggie Brown, Mrs. Tina Potter, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Katherine Garber, of Bakersville.

OPERATED UPON

Mrs. Minnie Dawson, of North Eleventh street, was operated upon at the City hospital Monday by Drs. Marshall, McClain and Lower. Her condition was said to be satisfactory at a late hour last night.

Canal Lewisville Woman Dies From Paralytic Stroke

Mrs. Henry Crawford, aged 64, died at her home in Canal Lewisville, Sunday night, after a few days' illness following a stroke of paralysis. Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the M. E. church with Rev. C. C. Erwin in charge. Interment will be made in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Crawford had been a life long resident of the Canal Lewisville vicinity. She was a woman dearly loved by hosts of friends and all who came within the influence of her kindness and gentleness. For many years she had been a faithful and devout member of the Canal Lewisville Baptist church and her usefulness in all lines of activity within the church will be greatly missed. In addition to her husband she is survived by two sons, Warner and Nathan, of Canal Lewisville and one daughter, Mrs. Mollie Zetty, of Coshocton.

The arrest was the culmination of some trouble between Hankins and his father-in-law, S. G. Mapel, both of whom live at Conesville. According to the story told by Mapel, Hankins had abused his wife at Mapel's home and the latter remonstrated, ejecting Hankins from the house. Hankins, it is said, then pulled a gun. Mapel later swore out the warrant for his arrest.

Art Works Declares Dividend

The directors of the American Art Works held their regular quarterly meeting in the offices of the company on Walnut street Saturday. At this meeting the regular resume of the year's business was read to the assembled directors and a dividend of 1 1/4 percent declared on the preferred stock.

A remarkable feature of the report as read was that which referred to the business condition of the year. The early months of the past year were decidedly dull but the latter part of the year, especially the last four months, showed such a decided improvement that the dividend was justified.

If Too Fat Get

More Fresh Air

Be Moderate in Your Diet And Reduce Your Weight With Oil Of KOREIN.

Lack of fresh air weakens the oxygen-carrying power of the blood, the liver becomes sluggish, fat accumulates and the action of many of the vital organs are hindered thereby. The heart action becomes weak, work is an effort and the beauty of the figure is destroyed.

Fat put on by indoor life is unhealthy and if nature is not assisted in throwing it off by increasing the oxygen-carrying power of the blood a serious case of obesity may result.

When you feel that you are getting too stout, take the matter in hand at once, don't wait until your figure has become a joke and your health ruined through carrying around a burden of unsightly and unhealthy fat.

Spend as much time as you possibly can in the open air, breathe deeply, and get from any drugstore a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself every few days and keep up the treatment until you are down to normal. Oil of korein is absolutely harmless as pleasant to take, helps the indigestion and is designed to increase the oxygen-carrying power of the blood.

Even a few days treatment should show a noticeable reduction in weight. There is nothing better. Page and Lorenz Co., can supply you.

Don't Be Bilious, Headachp, Sick Or Constipated

Take one or two Cascarets tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. Wake up feeling grand, your head will be clear, your tongue clean, breath sweet, stomach regulated and your liver and thirty feet of bowels active. Get a box at any drug store now and get straightened up by morning. Stop the headache, biliousness, bad colds and bad days. Feel fit and ready for work or play. Cascarets do not gripe, sicken or inconvenience you the next day like salts, pills or calomel. They're fine!

Mothers should give a whole Cascart anytime to cross, sick, bilious or feverish children because it will act thoroughly and can not injure.

FOREIGN SPIES

Prosecutor Henderson says that Saturday's report of the grand jury, in which 19 indictments, involving 20 persons, were returned, is but a scratch on the surface. Many more are coming. After working day and night, most of the minor cases against persons involved in riots have been disposed of. A total of 130 defendants have been arraigned in justice courts and most of them either let off with fines or held for the grand jury.

Due To Ignorance.

John A. Voll of Zanesville, president of the State Federation of Labor, says that the trouble was due chiefly to the ignorance of those engaged in it. "Many of the Youngstown foreigners have never been taught anything," he said. "There are 1-100 children in the East Youngstown schools, in a population of 10,000. There are only nine children in high school, 20 in the eighth grade, 10 in the seventh, 30 in the sixth, 52 in the fifth, 153 in the fourth, and 825 in the first second and third. This tells the story."

Mediator Fred C. Croxton of the state industrial commission and George F. Miles and W. J. Goessel, his assistants, who aided in the settlement of the strikes, have returned to Columbus. The Youngstown saloons, which were closed on account of the riots, were reopened Monday.

Nailed by the Ears.

During the prosecution of a London east end shopkeeper for advertisement recently the magistrate remarked that in days gone by tradesmen convicted of offenses similar to this were punished by being nailed by the ears to their own doorposts.

Warning Him.

"My dear, I can give you a satisfactory explanation of my delay in getting home this evening," said a man. "You may have an explanation, Henry, but I can tell you in advance that it won't be satisfactory."—Detroit Free Press.

Stops Any Cold In A Few Hours

Relief comes instantly. A dose taken every two hours until three doses are taken will rid gripe misery and break up severe cold either in the head, chest, body or limbs.

It promptly opens clogged-up nostrils and air passages in the head, stops nasty discharge or nose running, relieves sick headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiff nose.

REPUBLICANS ASK FOR INTERVENTION

G. O. P. Leaders Never Satisfied With Administration's Policy.

MEXICO NEEDS DICTATOR.

No President Can Crush the Revolutionists, and the Nature of the People Makes It Necessary to Rule With Strong Arm—Ignorant Peons and Indians Cannot Govern Themselves.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Jan. 18.—[Special.]—The Republicans have never been satisfied with the conduct of affairs in Mexico. Had it not been for the European war there would have been much more severe criticism of the administration's policy, and it may have been that long before this intervention would have been forced by public opinion.

One thing upon which President Wilson was determined from the beginning of his administration was that there should be no war while he was president. He was not quite able to literally keep his promise to himself in this regard, for the taking of Vera Cruz was an act of war. But he has been successful in keeping this country out of any real war which meant real fighting.

Will Always Be Troublesome.

Mexico will always be troublesome. The only ruler of that country who was able to keep a semblance of peace was Diaz, and he killed insurgents as soon as they appeared. The efforts to care for the "hundreded 80 per cent" the peons and Indians and ignorant, and to give them a voice in the affairs of the government is a failure and must be a failure in all like communities.

Such a country as Mexico must be governed by a dictator or an oligarchy. It is impossible to make a real republic of such a people. As long as our people treat that kind of a government in Mexico we will be in trouble. As long as our people go into Mexico their lives and property will be sacrificed unless backed by our own authority or by some authority which has power to control the bandits and ma-

Would Let Filipinos Go.

For a long time it has been asserted by Champ Clark, and other Democrats have asserted the same thing, that if there could be a secret vote in the house there would be more than three-fourths of the members in favor of freeing the Philippines and cutting loose entirely from oriental entanglements.

Recent speeches in the senate on this subject seem to bear out that idea. For a long time it has been sinking in on our people that the Philippines are an incubus; that there is nothing in them for the people of this country; that even the so-called exploiters can get little out of them; consequently the sooner we cut loose from them the better.

Full of Information.

One speech made on the subject of the Philippines deserves special commendation. John F. Shafer of Colorado showed his usual painstaking care and desire to acquire accurate information when he visited the Philippines. He not only acquired the information, but he gave it to the senate in a manner which was understood and appreciated.

OHIO WOMAN HAD BAD STOMACH

Mrs. Perkins Finds Swift Relief After First Dose of Wonderful Remedy.

Mrs. W. E. Perkins of Point Place, R. R. No. 7, Toledo, suffered for a long time from stomach troubles. She felt bad most of the time and she could hardly ever find anything to eat that would agree with her.

She took Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and was surprised at the sudden restoration that followed. She wrote:

"I have been taking your remedy and it has done me so much good and I am so much better that I am willing to say anything and everything that I used a year ago before I knew what stomach trouble was. I am thankful that I have found a wonderful remedy."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy is a powerful stomachic and cathartic. It is made of pure vegetable matter. No more dieting, no more suffering, no more gas in the stomach, and no more heartburn. Get a bottle of your druggist now and try it. An absolute guarantee—If not satisfied, your money will be returned.

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Early Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Pure and Effective

By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about 85¢ as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (40 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, loose or painful cough and heals the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of Pinex on the membranes is known by almost every one. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract combined with guaicol and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for 2½ ounces of Pinex, and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., St. Wayne, Ind.

everybody in the states is now."

There was a little amusement over the remark, and it showed that Sherman does not now take himself seriously as a presidential possibility.

Cyrus and the Persians.

The Persians of the time of Cyrus were Zoroastrians. The Persian religion was primitively monotheistic, and they allowed no idols or other material symbols of deity in their temples. There was less enmity on the part of the Jews against the Persians than against the other great nations with whom they came in contact, due probably to the monotheism which characterized the Persian religion. As Cyrus, whatever else may be said of him, was certainly not an idolater.—Christian Herald.

IS YOUR HAIR GETTING DARKER?

Don't worry about it and don't resort to any artificial bleach—but step into any one of the good stores named below and ask for Go-Go-Oil.

This is the splendid new shampoo you have heard so much about—that which has made famous the beautiful hair of the Filipinos, among whom baldness, dandruff and scalp diseases are unknown. This is due to their use of the plant Go-Go combined with coconut oil. The American demand has resulted in this new shampoo, Go-Go-Oil, which gives all the benefits in a most agreeable form.

Go-Go-Oil is a liquid shampoo which makes the scalp healthy and free from dandruff. It thoroughly cleanses every strand. A soft, creamy lather, fragrant, easy to use, absolutely harmless and effective. Sold by these good druggists:

son receiving pay for more than one office. Smith stated that before he assumed office, Andrew Fisher was receiving $300 per year as clerk of the board of control, $70 per month as water works superintendent and $55 per month as city engineer. He intimated that the reason no objection was made to Fisher's holding three offices was the fact that he is not a member of the Socialist party. He also pointed out the fact that Fisher was holding at the time of Green's inspection, the positions of water works superintendent and city engineer and that Green passed over this fact but didn't fail to notice that Smith was holding more than one office. The lecture by Mrs. Korngold was an interesting talk along futurist lines and a fair crowd attended.

VICTORY IN GRASP, ERRORS LOST ALL

Hamilton Admits That Mistakes Caused Dardanelles Failure.

BLAMES BRITISH OFFICERS.

Kitchener Failed to Send Reinforcements at Critical Time—Without Water, Unbacked by Artillery, Men Were Disorganized—Generals Fell Fighting in the Ranks.

General Ian Hamilton's report on the British operations on the Gallipoli peninsula tells the story of the fighting from the beginning of May to the middle of October.

Probably no more important contribution to the history of the present war has yet been made. The report throws light upon the great landing at Anzac cove and Suvla bay, Aug. 7, which has been the subject of strong attacks upon the military administration of the government, the operations requiring the combined action of the army and the navy.

The Suvla bay landing failed to accomplish its object, the report shows, partly because the forces consisted of untried troops under generals inexperienced in the new warfare and partly through the failure of the water supply. The sufferings of the troops for lack of water make painful reading.

"On Oct. 11 your lordship (Earl Kitchener) called asking me for an estimate of the losses which would be involved in the evacuation of the peninsula," says General Hamilton. "I replied in terms showing that such a step was to me unthinkable. On Oct. 16 I received a cable recalling me to London for the reason that his majesty's government desired fresh, unbiased opinion from a responsible commander upon the question of early evacuation."

Turks Make Grand Assault.

The most stirring passages of the document describe the ill fated landing at Suvla bay and Anzac to secure command of the heights on the middle of the peninsula and cut off the Turkish forces at the lower extremity, where the allied armies made their first landing.

"The North Lancashire men were simply overwhelmed in their shallow trenches by sheer weight of numbers, while the Wiltshires, who were caught out in the open, were literally almost annihilated," declares the report.

"Still the Turks poured down the western slopes of Chanak Bair as if determined to gain everything they had lost. But once they were over the crest they became exposed not only to the full blast of the guns, naval and military, but a battery of ten New Zealand machine guns, which played upon their serried ranks at close range until their barrels were red hot.

Generals Fight in Ranks.

"Unhesitatingly our men plunged again into the struggles, in which generals fought in the ranks and men dropped their scientific weapons and caught one another by the throat.

"Toward this supreme struggle the absolute last two battalions from the general reserve were now hurried, but by 10 o'clock in the morning the effort of the enemy was spent. Soon their shattered remnants began to trickle back, leaving a track of corpses behind them. By night, except for prisoners or wounded, no live Turk was left upon our side of the slope.

"By evening the total casualties of General Hamilton's force had reached 12,000 and included a very large proportion of officers.

"The Warwicks and Worcesters had lost literally every single officer.

"The old German notion that no unit could stand the loss of more than 25 per cent has been completely falsified. The Thirtieth division and the Twenty-ninth brigade of the Tenth Irish division had lost more than twice that and in spirit were game for as much more fighting as might be required.

"The grand coup had not come off. The narrow were out of sight and beyond field gun range, but this was not the fault of General Hamilton.

of the officers or men under his command.

The Suvla bay expedition, which has been the subject of the greatest criticism, suffered various misfortunes, although elaborate plans were worked out by the army staff with Vice Admiral de Robeck.

But the navy was unwilling to land six battalions where the corps commander considered they could not act effectively. The cause of the navy's action, General Hamilton says, was for some reason not specified, but it resulted in delay.

In the middle of August General Hamilton estimates the Turks had 110,000 rifles to the British 25,000. The Turks had plenty of ammunition and reserves, while the British divisions were 45,000 below their nominal strength.

General Hamilton asked for 20,000 fresh rifles, believing that with them furnished at once he could "cut off" the troops could clean a passage for the fleet to Constantinople.

"It may be judged how deep was my disappointment," he says, "when I learned the essential drafts of reinforcements and munitions could not be sent, the reason given being one which prevented me from further insistence."

The Presidential Salute.

One explanation for the reason for adopting twenty-one guns as the presidential salute is that there might be maintained a uniformity in national salutes. Great Britain having in the distant past adopted twenty-one as the number for the royal salute. Of the many surmises as to why the number twenty-one was settled upon we mention two—first, that twenty-one was the number of years fixed by English law as the age of majority; second, that seven was the original salute and three times seven would signify one seven for each of the divisions, England and Wales, Scotland and Ireland. It is asserted that the United States adopted this salute to signify to the mother country that her child had reached his majority and was prepared in law to inherit the land and to this end fired the "gun of 1776," the figures of which year, 1+7+7+6, equal 21.—Philadelphia Press.

A Strict Dramatic Censor.

Vienna once possessed the strictest dramatic censor ever known in the person of Franz Hoegelin, who held that post in the Austrian capital at the beginning of the last century. Hoegelin published a manual for the guidance of censors. "A pair of lovers should never be allowed to appear on the stage alone. They must always be accompanied by a third person of mature years." Marriages out of one's class were also strictly forbidden by Hoegelin on the stage, and he quotes an instance of a play which he refused to pass because the author made the hero, Count Valdenar, marry a gardener's daughter. "Such misalliances have unfortunately been known to occur in real life, but that is no reason why they should be allowed on the stage," he said.

The Weather Changeth Not.

The oldest weather diary known to be in existence was kept by a Lincolnshire parson, William Merle, close on 600 years ago. From 1337 to 1344 he wrote it up, often day by day, in Latin, and his manuscript, being on vellum, was somehow preserved and is now in the Bodleian. Merle did not trouble himself with the popular lore about "skerry influences," but stuck to an accurate record of fact, in the spirit at least of the modern meteorologists. And from his jottings it seems that he had pretty much the same kind of weather to deal with as folks in his parish of Frilby experience now. Contrary to theory, the changes of six centuries have not reduced the number of wet days in the year.—London Chronicle.

Sues Texas Land Company

Judgment to the amount of $480 is sought by H. B. Daugherty, of Cooperdale, who commenced suit in common pleas court Monday against J. F. Garrison and D. Hoffelinger, doing business under the firm name of the Hale Investment Co., with offices at Plainview, Tex. Daugherty alleges that in June, 1912, he contracted with the defendants to solicit purchasers for land near Plainview. He was to receive $1.50 per acre when a sale was made thru his efforts. The plaintiff claims that as a result of his solicitation, S. C. Kissner, of Delaware, purchased 320 acres of Texas land and that he did not receive his commission. Attorney J. C. Daugherty represents the plaintiff.

In honor of her birthday anniversary a company of friends surprised Miss Nora Hall, at her home on Orchard street last evening. A six o'clock dinner arranged by the uninvited guests was enjoyed and the evening spent in sewing. Enjoying the affair were: Misses

Girls! Act Now! Hair Coming Out Means Dandruff

Save your hair! Beautify it! It is only a matter of using a little Danderine occasionally to have a head of heavy, beautiful hair: soft, lustrous, wavy and free from dandruff. It is easy and inexpensive to have pretty, charming hair and lots of it. Just get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance: freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair: but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower; destroyer of dandruff and cure of itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

AN OLD PROVERB.

It used to be proverbial that every man (and it is certainly no less true of woman) is either a fool or a physician at forty. This means that every intelligent person must learn so much about caring for his own health that by the time he is forty years of age he can almost be reckoned as a physician.

Why, then, is there so much talk by doctors against "self-medication"? A woman can recognize all ordinary ailments with out calling on a doctor. If they are ailments distinctive to her sex she generally knows enough to use the greatest of all remedies for such ailments, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and likewise she is familiar with the standard remedies for other diseases.

War Debate At

New Century Club.

"Who Began the War and Why," was the subject of a spirited debate at the New Century club at the home of Mrs. E. W. Cram, on South Sixth street, last ed the question for the Germans, Miss Shrake, following her with arguments favoring the Triple Entente. Mrs. David Jackson, on the side of the Germans, answered Miss Shrake and Miss Custer closed the debate in support of the Triple Entente. The debate was left undecided. Both sides of the question were handled in a way that showed extensive study and thorough preparation. The arguments were good natured throughout and left no room for ill feeling on either side.

The next meeting of the club will be on Monday night, January 24 at the home of Mrs. Merrill, on Main street.

GOOD RESULTS AT SERVICES

Splendid results were noted in the Sunday services at the revival of the First Baptist church. Each service saw a number of conversions and a display of deep interest on the part of the large audience. At the evening service it was necessary to bring in chairs to accommodate the crowd.

Monday night's service was also an interesting one and came to a close at a late hour after an impressive altar service during which there were several conversions.

Special music has been arranged for the song services which begin each evening at 7 o'clock, following the preparatory prayer service. Preaching begins at 7:30.

The Hippopotamus.
In spite of its clumsy build the hippopotamus can run fast. That is why he is called "river horse." The hippo's feet are kept apart by the wide body and make paths with a ridge down the middle, recognizable at once. Hippos swim very well, but go at their greatest speed when they can gallop along the bottom in shallow water. They can stay under water a long time, and when they come to the surface they send little jets of spray from their nostrils. The cow is devoted to the calf. The young one stands on her back as the mother swims.

A MISTAKE IN IDENTITY

By OSCAR COX

Having been invited to spend the week end at Seabright, on Friday afternoon, suit case in hand, I appeared at the railway station. A pale faced child poked a bunch of violets under my nose and looked an appeal to buy them. I did so, and putting them in the buttonhole of my coat I strolled toward the door through which passengers were going to the trains.

"Are you Will?"
The voice came from a very pretty girl who was looking into my face inquiringly. My name is William, and it is so common for men that I was not especially surprised at being asked the question by a stranger, thinking her to have made a mistake in the person. My reply was:

"It is."

"I supposed so by the violets. Come, let us get on to the train. I have my ticket."

She slipped her arm through mine as confidently as if I belonged to her. Not knowing what to do I did nothing, but I fully intended to make her aware of her error at once.

"That last letter of Clara's," she said as we walked to the train, "decided me."

Curiosity here stepped in to take a hand. I wondered what Clara had said in the letter.

"Um," I said by way of saying nothing. But by this time we reached the car steps, and I handed the young lady in. She took a seat, and I sat down beside her. I had thus far taken no advantage of her mistake. I would let her go a little further before heading her off. I have noticed that if a woman has anything to say she will usually say it without encouragement.

"Clara is just too lovely for anything," said the girl.

"Um."
"She has been very kind to me. When she wrote me that you had grown tired of your lonely life, that a big city like New York is of all places in the world the most desolate, that you wished she would introduce you to some girl who would make you a good wife and without the bother of a courtship, I realized that it was the same for men as for women, and while I didn't like your words—the bother of courting—I felt that in the main you were right. Then I received her letter making the arrangement for us to spend the week end with her and saying that you would meet me for this train and would wear a boutonniere of violets."

I had got the whole story in a nutshell. There was none of that shooting out in different directions like a bursting rocket, but a concise narration of facts. Just then the conductor came along taking tickets. My companion showed one for Dune, a station not quite so far as Seabright. Both tickets were taken up, and she did not see that mine was for a different station from hers. I began to explain:

"I dare say you will blame me when you have heard."
"Clara told me all about your marriage and divorce," she interrupted. "I may as well say right here that I don't consider you in the least to blame. Indeed I don't see how you could have acted otherwise."

"Why not make the break right here?" I concluded to plunge.
"I am not a divorced man," I said. "I have never been married. I think you must have made a mistake. For whom have you taken me?"

She looked at me in astonishment. "Clara gave me no name except Will. She said your other name would come later if the affair proceeded."

"I am quite sure there has been a mistake. I began to tell you a few minutes ago, when you interrupted me."

"Oh, my goodness gracious!" "Don't disturb yourself. Your secret is perfectly safe with me. But I regret that you should have fallen into the wrong hands. Is there anything I can do to right matters?"
"No, no, no."

"How do we know that if you have made a mistake fate has not?"
The young lady was apparently at least calmed by this. At any rate, she seemed interested. I took out my card case, drew a card and, having penciled my address on it, handed it to her, asking her to let me know how her affair with Will came out. A few moments later the train slowed up, the guard cried, "Dune!" and I handed my new found friend out of the train. She gave me an embarrassed smile at parting. I saw her enter a carriage driven by a coachman in livery and roll away.

I heard nothing more of the matter till one day I received a note signed by a name I did not recognize as among my acquaintances. As soon as I had read a few lines I knew it was from the girl who made the mistake. To keep her promise she informed me that the matter which had come to my knowledge had not materialized. She seemed much mortified at having entered upon it in the way she had.

I wrote asking permission to call and received it. I found one who had lived in affluence, but, having been reduced to want, had gone to the city to earn her living. She had so suffered from loneliness that when a friend undertook to make a match for her in a rather crude way she was tempted. She discovered that the man she was to meet did not suit her.

I found her ready to be consoled in the matter and consoled her, but not without "the bother of courting."

DIET FOR STOUT FOLKS.

Foods That Nurish, but That Do Not Produce Fat.

Many foods are very nourishing, but do not produce fat. The two kinds which create fatty tissues are fats of all kinds, like butter, lard, drippings (foods cooked in them), and the large group of foods classed as starches. If eaten in excess starch will be laid up in the body as superfluous or stored fat.

Following is a list of nourishing foods which will not produce excess fat:

Light meats, like chicken, white fish, lean beef; all vegetables except potatoes, parsnips and other starchy kinds; fruits of all kinds except bananas; grains or cereals except oat meal and rice; beans and cheese, milk (in small quantity); eggs.

Beer and all malt drinks increase fatty tendency. The diet of milk and eggs will fatten unless exercise is taken or the body is in a very run-down condition. Cocoa is a fattening drink also.

Exercise, plenty of water between meals and a diet of lean meats and many vegetables and fruits prevent fat. Avoid pastries, cake, fried foods, gravies and sauces. Do not eat between meals. Live in the open air and be active. If possible, perspire freely some time each day.—San Francisco Chronicle

The Grumpy Bachelor.

LITERARY FORGERIES.

Stuff With Which Vrain-Lucas Duped An Age Scientist.
The most remarkable literary forgery on record was perpetrated in 1870 on Michael Chasles, a French scientist of European reputation. Chasles, who was in his dotage, purchased within a few years from one Vrain-Lucas no fewer than 27,000 autographs. A. B. Broadley tells the story in his "Chats on Autographs."
"Beginning with a supposed correspondence between the youthful Newton and Pascal, Vrain-Lucas proceeded to fabricate letters of Rabelais, Montesquieu and La Bruyere. Before he had finished M. Chasles became the possessor of letters in French, and written on paper made in France, of Julius Caesar, Cleopatra, Mary Magdalene and even of Lazarus after his resurrection."
Vrain-Lucas was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, and among other forged manuscripts from his pen there were produced in court letters from Alexander the Great, Herod, Pompey, Judas Iscariot, Sappho, Pontius Pilate and Joan of Arc.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Ham-burg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

The Gate That Won Jane

How It Opened the Way For Their Happiness.

By MARY G. BENTLEY.

Farmer Tillson hadn't a generous hair in his head. He kept every cent he got and never gave out a cent.

Jane was as open hearted as Tillson was close. She was the life of the young farmer people round about, and not one of them but loved her. Her uncle did all he could to impress her with the fact that, having some capital, she should look upon marriage as a sort of partnership in which her partner should furnish an equivalent to her own means.

One day there came to Tillson's farm a young man who asked for work. He was rather intellectual looking than muscular, a fact that did not favorably impress Tillson. But he offered to work for very low wages, and as it was harvest time Tillson employed him.

Now, Jane no sooner saw young Zeke Freeman doing the hardest work there was to be done on the farm, which her uncle put upon the young man, than she pitied him. Pity being akin to love, she loved him. She was bright enough, however, to keep the situation from her uncle, who never suspected it till Freeman one day went to him to ask for Jane's hand.

"No, ye can't have Jane," snarled old Tillson ungraciously. "She's my brother's daughter an' has no money of her own, an' you ain't nothin' but a hired man with no prospects. I don't see what Jane was thinkin' on to say ye could ask me. Ye can't have her, an' that's all there is to it."

Zeke opened his mouth as though to protest or to strengthen his case by further argument, but Tillson's face was grim and forbidding, and he knew the old man too well to weaken his chances by causing useless irritation. He turned away.

That afternoon they were near the farmyard gate, Zeke digging post holes and Old Tillson patching up a wheelbarrow, when the drummer of an agricultural warehouse appeared. But, instead of going straight to Tillson, he stopped at the gate and began to examine it curiously.

"Queer contrivance that," he said presently. "Good idea, though—grand, good idea. How did you happen to think of it?"

"It's some of my hired man's dillydallyin'," replied Tillson gruffly. "He's forever up to something of that sort. Wastes half his time."

Zeke flushed a little, but did not look up.

"No wasted time about that," declared the drummer emphatically. "It's a valuable idea. There's money in it."

"Money?" questioned Tillson eagerly. Then he saw one of the horses squeezing his body through the open doorway of the cornerrib and he rushed off. He would have sent Zeke, only he preferred him to continue at the post hole digging.

"So it's your idea, is it?" said the drummer as he crossed to Zeke's side. "Going to have it patented, of course."

Zeke laughed. "Patented!" he echoed. "That foolish thing? Why, it's nothing but a lot of stones and two hinges placed so the gate will shut of itself."

"But that's just the sort of thing which usually proves valuable," persisted the drummer. "The simpler the device, if it's useful, the better. You'll make a mistake if you don't protect the idea."

"Then I guess I'll make the mistake," said Zeke carelessly. "Patents cost money, and I haven't any. Besides, if I had I wouldn't risk 50 cents on that foolish thing."

The drummer regarded him thoughtfully. "Look here," he said suddenly, "how would you like to make a trade? I could appropriate the idea for myself if I did business that way, but I don't. Still, I like to make money wherever I see a chance. My house does a good deal in patent articles, and I can generally guess pretty close whether there's money in an idea or not. Now, if you say so, I will put this through at my own expense and keep half the profit. What do you say? Suppose we fix this thing now."

He opened a notebook and wrote for some seconds, then tore out the leaf and handed it to Zeke. "It's a sort of agreement for you to put your name to," he said. "Read it first, though. Never sign anything until you know what it is."

Later I will have regular papers made out for both of us." Zeke read the paper and signed his name with the pen which the drummer held ready. Then he returned his digging. A few moments later Tillson came hurrying back. "The dratted horse ate a full peck of good corn," he began wrathfully. "No supper 'll he get this night. Now, what is it 'bout that gate bizness? How's there money in it?"

"By getting the invention patented," answered the drummer carelessly, "but Zeke and I have fixed that up. Well, I must be going." "But, look here!" exclaimed Tillson. "Ye must talk with me 'bout that gate. It's mine! Zeke ain't nothin' to do with it."

"Oh, I don't want the gate," said the drummer coolly. "It's only the idea, and that, I believe, belongs to Zeke. Goodby."

Tillson stared at him as he walked away, the wrath deepening on his face. Suddenly he swung round to Zeke. "What did ye get?" he demanded. "Come, hand it over."

"I didn't receive anything in money," Zeke answered.

"Stop!" roughly. "Don't tell any yarns. Didn't I hear the man say you an' him fixed it up? Now, how much money did he give ye for my gate? Look at me straight!"

Zeke did so, with a half smile. "He's to pay for getting out a patent," he replied, "and have half what we make."

"An' ye didn't get any money?" "Not a cent."

Tillson looked at him sharply, but there was no deceit in the straightforward face. Even he realized the fact. "Then yer an idiot!" he snarled. "The man was set on the idea. I could see that from the way he spoke. Ye could have got $50 or $100 just as easy as nothin'. Maybe we could have made a trade for a lot of his tools. An' now—huh—ye'll never hear from him ag'in."

Zeke did not answer, and presently Tillson went toward the barn grumbling. But his words did not disturb Zeke in the least. He scarcely expected to hear from the man again. Even when the "regular papers" came, with imposing seals and blank places for him to sign his name, he regarded them more as novelties than as anything that would affect his future.

But one day a letter came which caused his eyes to open wide with amazed delight and which after a half hour of hard thinking carried him into the house after his Sunday clothes. It was nearly dark when he returned from the town. Old Tillson met him at the barn door, his face dark.

"What d'ye leave work for without my say so?" he demanded.

"Business," replied Zeke. "I heard you say 't'other day the mortgage had run by and that if you did not raise the money soon they'd be selling you out. So I've been to a lawyer and had it fixed over in my name, to save you trouble. You can pay me whenever it suits. You see, in answer to the look on Tillson's face, 'I got a check for $2,000 on the patent and am likely to get as much more every year. I think I'll buy Dickson's big farm that joins ours.'"

Tillson stood looking at the young man with mouth and eyes wide open. The expression on his face was a study.

"What interest you goin' to charge me?"

"Never mind about the interest. You can pay whatever rate you please or nothing at all."

"Waal, I suppose you've got to be paid suthin'. What is it you want?"

"Jane."

"Oh, that's the pay you're after."

The moment the old curmudgeon's interest came to the front he was less concerned about that of his niece.

"You and she can settle that, I suppose. As long as she's satisfied I suppose I'll have to be."

Jane was perfectly satisfied, and before long there was a wedding.

But Zeke didn't buy Dickson's farm. He drifted into the employ of a firm engaged in the development of mechanical contrivances and is now a very rich man.

The Ever Active Brain.

The question, "Does the brain ever rest?" would seem to be answerable only in the negative. Unconscious cerebration appears to be a necessary concomitant of the powers of intellect, and during sleep, whether we remember it or not, we are always dreaming. Of course, during waking time we are perpetually thinking, thinking. Dream is the thought of the sleep time, when reason is out of the game, and the fancy, or imagination, has the reins, with nothing to hold her back. We take many a trip under her guidance that we are unable to recall when she has resigned the reins into the hands of reason. Awake or asleep, we are always busy. The mind never rests.

THOSE AWFUL MIAMI BOYS

Oxford, O., Jan. 17.—During the past two weeks an epidemic of juvenile exuberance has broken out here and has caused the suspension of nine men of the freshman class of Miami University. Three men have severed their connection with the institution because of a fire that was built on the floor of one of the dormitory rooms. On Wednesday of this week, six more confessed to having smeared limburger cheese on doors knobs and steam radiators in the University buildings. Their offense was deemed grave enough for them to be suspended.

Battery of the Cat.

The piercing wailing of the cat in the night startles and exasperates us beyond all bearing—not by its loudness, but by a certain vicious, weird, half terrifying, half infuriating note in it that makes us spring to arms with the bootjack or other substitute for the boomerang, as the warwhoop of our tribal enemies did a century or centuries ago, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson.

One of Mark Twain's wise old frontiersmen had caught this note when he explained to the tenderfoot that animal speech had rules of composition and grammar just like human speech, and that "the reason a cat riles ye so ain't on account of the noise she makes, but on account of the sickenin' bad grammar she uses." And he was right, for the grammar of scarp lifting and the whole alphabet of battle, murder and sudden death tingles and screams in the rousing cry.

VICK'S VAPOR SALVE

True Secret of Keeping Youthful Looking

(The Beauty Seeker.)
"The real secret of keeping young-looking and beautiful," says a well-known hygienist, "is to keep the liver and bowels normally active. Without these requisites, poisonous waste products remain in the system, polluting the blood and lodging in various organs, tissues, joints. One becomes flabby, obese, nervous, mentally sluggish, dull-eyed, wrinkled and sallow of face."
"But to get liver and bowels working as they ought, without producing evil after-effects has been the problem. Fortunately, there is a prescription of unquestioned merit, which is in fact in convenient tablet form. Its value is due largely to an ingredient derived from the humble May apple, or its root, which has been called 'vegetable calomel' because of its effectiveness—though, of course, it is not to be classed with the real calomel of mercurosal origin. There is no habit-forming constituent in 'Santonal' tablets—that's the name—and their use is not followed by weakness or exhaustion. On the contrary, these harmless vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. Santonal tablets, which may be procured from any druggist—a dime's worth will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person."

The Constipation Curse

Constipation—clogged bowels cause pain and sickness; 95 per cent of our ills, say the authorities. Santonal Laxatives bring quick relief. All vegetable—contain no calomel. Ten doses for a dime at any druggist. Physician's sample free, upon request. If you mention this advertisement, The Santonal Remedies Co., Inc., 800 Madison Ave., Covington, Ky.
